

Victor Ramsey
Adjunct Assistant Professor
York College, The City University of New York
Jamaica, NY

Victor Ramsey has been in his current position for 23 years, teaching health and physical education. Prior to this role, he served in the New York City Department of Education (NYCDOE) for three decades, including as an administration and curriculum and training specialist for the Office of School Wellness Programs. Victor has also been a middle school teacher, dean, assistant principal, and regional director for Fitness and Wellness at the NYCDOE.

Victor currently serves on the SHAPE America Board of Directors and as a member of the Recruitment and Retention Task Force. He recently served on the NYS AHPERD board and as president of the Equity, Diversity, and Inclusiveness Section; he also cohosts the podcast, A-Z Health and PE. Victor earned a doctorate from Columbia University and has published on topics such as social justice and culturally responsive teaching in physical education.